Indians Still Waiting For 1850 Compensation

(This is the 12th chapter of "The Strangers," a searching report on the plight of B.C.'s native Indians.)

By G. E. MORTIMORE

Many Indians believe that the white men stole their land and their fish and game, and should pay for it.

Andy Paul of North Vancouver, one of the sharpest brains in the Indian race has produced in modern times, often expresses his conviction that the Indians still own Vancouver and other valuable parcels of real estate, totalling about two thirds of the land area of British Columbia.

He contends that the non-Indians now occupying much of B.C. are interlopers, squatting on Indian land.

Mr. Paul made newspaper headlines recently when he asserted that the provincial government had no right to give Portland Island to Princess Margaret. He said that island wasn't the property of the B.C. government in the first place.

Together with 251,000 square miles out of the 355,855 square miles in B.C., he argues, the island still belongs to the Indians.

He backs up his views by leading the questioner through a dizzy sequence of colonial dispatches, proclamations, royal commission findings and court decisions.

Good Case—in Theory

Some people dismiss the Indian claims as a joke or an agitator's gimmick. But impartial observers who have studied the history of the Indian land question in B.C., acknowledge that the Indians have a good case—at least in theory.

There are two opposing viewpoints: 1. The Indians were here first, and therefore they owned the land, and should be paid for it. 2. The Indian never truly owned any land, and the white men had just as much right to it as the Indians had. Should the Indian land question be dismissed and forgotten as a squabble over a dead historical issue? Most white people, and some Indians are anxious to forget it. However, it remains alive in the minds of thousands of Indians. Even Indians who have only a dim notion of what the argument was about still nurse resentment about the loss of their land.

Garbled stories of the land dispute, told around the stove or the TV set in Indian houses, contribute to the sense of injustice that many Indians have. There is no hope of understanding the psychology of the B.C. Indian without a glance at the land title question.

It was Britain's policy—later Canada's policy—to recognize that native peoples owned the territories over which they roamed, and to buy the land from them. The officials who negotiated the treaties did not force the Indians to show that they were occupying or using every square foot of the land.

Basis of All Dealings

The principle of extinguishing Indian title was not always followed. But it was supposed to be the basis of all dealings with the Indians.

In many parts of Canada, the Imperial government and the Dominion signed treaties with the Indians, under which the Indians conveyed title to hundreds of thousands of square miles in exchange for gifts, fairly small tracts of land reserved for Indian use, and a promise of an annual cash payment.

Except for 104,400 square miles of northeastern B.C. (23 per cent of the province by area) that was included in Treaty No. 8 signed with Alberta Indians, and some patches of land which Sir James Douglas made for the Hudson's Bay Co. on Vancouver Island, no treaty has ever been signed in B.C.

With these two exceptions, the white people have never bought British Columbia from the Indians.

It is hard to escape the conclusion that the Indians of British Columbia have been tricked and bullied out of their rights in the land.

After a long and bitter fight by the Indians and their white friends, a joint Senate-House committee in 1927 arrogantly dismissed the claim of B.C. Indians to title to the land, but allotted $100,000 a year in lieu of treaty payments, to be spent for the benefit of the B.C. Indians—not paid to them in cash. The Indians never have accepted the $100,000 as payment for their aboriginal title.

This sum now amounts to less than $3.20 each for B.C.'s 35,000 Indians, and as the population increases, the sum per capita will be less. Treaty Indians get $4 or $5 each forever, paid to them directly.

The treaties under which the Indians handed over the lands in other parts of Canada could scarcely be called generous. In Treaty Number Six, for example, Plains and Woods Cree in part of what is now Alberta and Saskatchewan delivered 112,000 square miles of land in exchange for benefits which included the following:—For every man, woman and child, $12 and $5 a year there-

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)

Two giant B-52 jet bombers collided in the air near Fairchild Air Force Base early Monday night. An unconfirmed report said an estimated 12 of the 16 men aboard were killed.

The planes smashed together less than two miles from the Fairchild runway and fell in flames about a mile apart.

NEAR MISS

A heavy section of the landing gear of one plane sailed 100 yards through the air, snapped the heavy post supporting a service station sign and narrowly missed two cars at gasoline pumps.

Jay Bailey, 17-year-old son of a U.S. Air Force major living at Fairchild, saw the planes shortly after they crashed in the air, and said it appeared the tail of one hit the wing of another. His mother thought one plane was taking off and the other coming in for a landing.

"LOUD BOOM"

"When I saw it, there was a lot of black smoke in the air, then a boom, then a louder boom and then they hit," young Bailey said.

Another witness said he thought a parachute landed in the flaming wreckage. The sleek multi-million-dollar bombers, prime atom bomb carriers of the U.S. Strategic Air Command, were strewn around in a farmer's field for 1,000 feet.

LONDON (UPI)—U.S. military authorities Monday placed all race riot areas in Britain "off limits" to American servicemen regardless of rank. The order came while Prime Minister Macmillan met with his cabinet to discuss the clashes between white and Negroes.

LABOR MINISTER WICKS... compulsory arbitration wanted

Forced Arbitration?

'Labor Unrest Rousing Public'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Labor Minister Wicks said Monday public pressure is growing in favor of compulsory arbitration in labor disputes.

Addressing the opening session of the convention of the demand changes and any government must be responsive to public opinion. He praised Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' Union, Western Division, Mr. Wicks said: "No government can ignore public opinion and remain the government."

B.C. has led Canada in labor unrest, he said, but other parts of the country "are really getting into it now."

"Unless the unrest subsides, Mill Union won't have any more to be said," he said.

Disaster Cost Millions

Ottawa has been asked to pay 50 per cent—or about $2,000,000—of the extra cost of fighting forest fires in B.C. this summer.

Premier Bennett has appealed to Prime Minister John Diefenbaker for "a new deal" on resource protection.

"Of all the fire and flood disasters in the past, there is nothing to equal the fire disaster in B.C. this year," said the premier.

STILL RISING

He said the government hadn't spared the cost in fire fighting but felt that Ottawa should reimburse the province by 50 per cent of the cost over the average year.

This year the fire fighting bill has passed the $4,000,000 mark and is still rising. It is more than 20 times the yearly average for fire fighting costs.

MILLIONS LOST

Forest service officials say that more than $30,000,000 worth of Crown timber has been lost in addition to the fighting expenses.

Meanwhile the hazard rose in the Vancouver forest district, which includes Vancouver Island, over the weekend and is now classed as moderate to high.

There were six new fires, three on the Island, in the district over the weekend, the largest being a 20-acre blaze near Duncan on the Cowichan Indian reserve.

Government Cancels New Mental Hospital

No Staff In Sight For Island

The provincial government has shelved plans for the construction of a 1,500-bed mental hospital on Vancouver Island.

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black said the move had been forced due to the inability to obtain sufficient trained mental hospital workers.

"We can't build a new hospital when it's impossible to find enough staff workers for Esquimalt as it is," he said. "The project had to be shelved."

Plans for the proposed hospital were first announced four years ago and several Island communities pressed to have the hospital built near their boundaries.

SITES INSPECTED

At one time the William Head quarantine station was mentioned as a possible site and a committee headed by Mr. Black personally inspected a number of offered sites. It had originally been estimated that the hospital would cost between $8,000 and $10,000 a bed.

Council Endorses New Skating Rink

With reservations, city council finance committee yesterday endorsed the proposal of the Junior Chamber of Commerce to build a new ice surface, mainly for children, at the rear of Memorial Arena.

The Jaycees wanted the city commission and to gain representation on the commission. Finance committee approved the idea of the junior chamber building the rink, but agreed with the arena commission that the Jaycees should pay for the site preparation as well as the building. (The Jaycees have about $25,000, and the remainder of the cost, estimated at $125,000, would mostly be raised by public subscription, the committee was informed.)

The committee also didn't see how the Jaycees could be represented on the arena commission. Mayor Percy Scourah said council had no power to guarantee the junior chamber representation.

Many Homes Disgrace to Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Many Canadians still are living in homes that "no Canadian should be living in," Labor Minister Starr said Monday night, and many children are being raised in circumstances that "should not be allowed to prevail in this country."

"We must help those who cannot help themselves," he said in an address marking the opening of National Home Week. "At the same time we must not neglect to provide facilities for those who are willing to help themselves."

Housing is vital both socially and as an employment maker, especially in the winter months, Mr. Starr told a dinner sponsored by the Ottawa Home Builders' Association.

The government's home-building drive, he said, is 130,000 units, he said. By July 31, 88,000 units had been started—an increase of 43 per cent from the comparable period last year. Completions by July 31 totalled 67,000 as against 59,000 at the same date in 1957. The number of completed but unoccupied units was 18,000 last year.

The 1958 program would provide employment directly or indirectly for 375,000 men.

John C. Smith, executive vice-president of the National Home Builders' Association, said he regrets only "16" of the 34 local associations across the country are taking part in National Home Week. But it was hoped that 7,000,000 or more Canadians might be reached by association publicity.

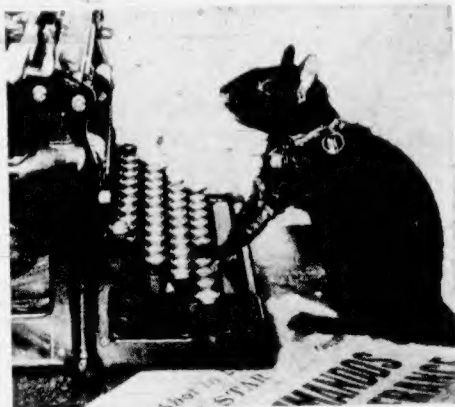

Mrs. Robert Carson said she heard the New York call and possible the local equipment her husband heard the other picked up trans-Pacific radio waves.

British Stay Home

LONDON (CP)—The Commonwealth Migration Council said Monday the number of Britons migrating to Canada this year is likely to be down 75 per cent from last year.

A record 112,000 went to Canada from Britain in 1957 and the council predicted there will be 75,000 to 80,000 fewer this year.

The two responsible factors, the council's report said, are Canada's trade recession and an improvement in Britain's economy.

Big Strike Over

Idle Plumbers Accept Terms

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lower B.C. mainland plumbing contractors Monday approved a 20-cent-an-hour basic pay increase for striking plumbers and immediately prepared themselves for a resumption of $52,000,000 worth of stalled construction work.

The settlement on the basis of the Goldenberg report includes fringe benefits worth an additional six cents an hour. It is effective immediately with no retroactive pay.

The plumbers' union accepted the peace terms Sunday. Plumbers will return to work after 19 weeks of lockout and strike for an increase that is less than one-third of the union's original demand.

The union originally asked for 80 cents more an hour in basic pay and fringe benefits which would have boosted the packet increase to 86 cents an hour.

$2.90 AN HOUR

The 20-cent increase finally granted will give plumbers a basic $2.90 an hour.

In announcing the settlement, contractors voiced a strong warning that "the day of big increases" is over.

"Trade unions throughout the construction industry must realize that further sharp inflation in the industry may scare investment capital away from B.C. and hobble the prospective home owner with bigger down payments," said employers' spokesman R. K. Gervin.

"At least half of construction exists today are labor," he declared. "Another spiral of labor costs can endanger the stability of the whole industry. Any shrinkage in investment capital will mean less work and less jobs."

Tenders Called For Ferries

Tenders were called yesterday for the construction of two 105-car ferries for the fast ferry service between Swartz Bay and the lower mainland to be inaugurated by the provincial government next summer.

The tenders will be opened by Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi at 2 p.m. Nov. 11. The specifications call for two ships, 329 feet in length, 72 feet wide and 2,880 tons.

There is no restriction on the nationality of firms bidding for the job and the tenders have been advertised across Canada.

Woman Harangues Leader

Sons Split on Russia

TRAIL (CP)—Reporter Jack Fisher of radio station CJAT says he has seen indications of a split in the ranks of Sons of Freedom Doukhobors.

Fisher said the first tangible evidence of the cleavage came Sunday when Peter Elasoff, who headed the recent Freedomite delegation visited the RCMP office at Crescent Valley. Elasoff is said to have told police that John Lebadoff, a deposed Freedomite leader, had been visiting Sons of Freedom families and attempting to lure them from returning to Russia.

At a meeting in Krestova Sunday night, Freedomite secretary Bill Moojelsky told 500 people of the visit to Ottawa, his meeting with Russian Embassy officials and of talks with B.C. Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

At one point a nude woman stood up and urged the meeting not to listen to Moojelsky, whom she termed an imposter. As Moojelsky read, the woman, naked, emerged from the sidelines and mounted the outdoor stage. Speaking in Russian, she launched a vehement scolding of Moojelsky and his associates. Other Freedomites told reporters she was telling the leaders "We do not want to go to Russia," and that she wished to "sue" Moojelsky.

Having finished, she left the stage, dressed and proceeded to launch into another harangue before an RCMP car, this time in English.

Gradually, sections of the main meeting broke away to listen to her. She told the RCMP "we want freedom," that "we are against" moving to Russia, and that "we want Serokin back."

Local Telephone Call Runs Amok To New York, Formosa, Moscow

TORONTO (CP)—Three local ornithologists seeking latest information on bird migration called a number provided by the Ontario Federation of Naturalists here Saturday and touched off an incident which has stumped the whole Bell Telephone system.

The number—Hudson 8-3103—is supposed to give the caller a recorded message on the progress of bird migration in this area.

The three persons claim they first received a busy signal, then had a conversation with a New York Times editor. A return call landed them in the middle of a conversation with someone in Formosa and with their third call they had confused talk with a person in Russia.

...because four generations of Canadians have come to depend on Imperial products on the road, on the farm, in the home

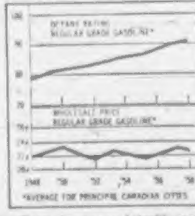

Imperial started supplying Canadians with oil products in the very early days of the industry in Canada... in fact, 1880 was the year it made its start in this business.

In most areas of Canada, it was an Imperial refinery which first began making oil products locally.

Imperial pioneered, too, in supplying

Canadians with products when and where they were needed. (As far back as 1907, Imperial opened the first service station in Canada... and perhaps in the world.)

Today, as over the past 78 years, Imperial recognizes its responsibility to bring Canadians the most modern of oil products at the lowest possible price.

Prices have increased steadily compared to 1907 gasoline prices.

PLANS, all tentative at present, to create an extensive land-sea park at the head of Cadboro Bay are forward-looking and contain many attractive features. The area is ideally suited to development of that sort, and the park that is envisaged would be a valuable asset to the Greater Victoria region. The Gyro Club already has done splendid work there, and the ambitious new project now under consideration would really be an elaboration of the foundation laid by the Gyros. That their efforts have helped to fill a public need was evidenced by the large crowds frequenting the park all through this summer.

In one item, however—the suggested construction of a boat-launching ramp and parking facilities for cars and boat trailers—the proposal appears to be most unwise. Like Willows Beach, the Cadboro Bay foreshore has always been a favored spot for children to swim and splash about in the water, and for family picnic parties on the sand. Experience all over Canada, especially in the last year or so with the numbers of small power boats increasing at an amazing rate, has demonstrated that it is exceedingly dangerous to have bathers and power boats sharing the same waters.

Instead of encouraging high-speed, trailer-transported boats to use Cadboro

Bay by providing launching facilities for them, it would be much better to do everything possible to discourage them and thereby preserve at least one beach where children and adults could swim and paddle in safety. To do this would not impose any hardship on the boaters. It might be a different matter if there were no place else for them to launch their boats; but that is not the case. Owners of trailer boats are now amply provided for by way of launching ramps all along the coast, with one only a mile away, at Cattle Point.

Promoters of the plan seem to believe that swimmers and boaters could be segregated and the latter regulated as to speed and general behavior. That idea has never worked out in other places, and there is no room for confidence that it would prove practicable in the somewhat narrow confines of Cadboro Bay. Even if adequate regulations could be devised, policing them would be difficult and costly, if not impossible.

There is the further consideration of space on land. Cars with boat trailers attached require a great deal of space for manoeuvring and parking, and to provide enough accommodation for the numbers likely to use Cadboro Bay if a ramp were built would be disproportionately into the area available for park development.

Defining Freedoms

IN opposition Mr. Diefenbaker was an ardent advocate of a statutory Bill of Rights and it was inevitable that he would introduce such a measure once he became prime minister. That he has now done, for discussion during the next session of Parliament. Between then and now there will thus be ample opportunity to weigh the pros and cons of the proposed legislation. The subject is not one of simple assertion and there are varying views on the need for any such bill.

It cannot be claimed that Canada suffers in comparison with other nations in the matter of human rights. The privileges of citizenship and the ordinary freedoms of democracy are well established here, even if the trend nowadays for increasing state intervention does undoubtedly put restrictions on human actions. In this respect our grandfathers lived with less interference in their daily lives. By contrast of course they were left much to their own resources, and it is the demand for government aid and assistance of every kind that of necessity compels the many rules and regulations impinging on modern society.

Basically, however, Canadians enjoy an ethos that safeguards their interests very well. They are fortunate in having courts of law which command universal respect for their probity, and the general tenor of society favors fair play all round. The passage of some law itself, nevertheless, can be harmful because of faulty legislation and one phase of the proposed Bill of Rights, that designed to curb incipient autocracy by a government in power, is thus of particular interest.

The danger of codifying freedoms is that it may freeze aspects of authority and make them less resilient to the changing needs and concepts of democracy. In detail freedoms are not easy to define, either, as the submitted bill itself makes evident. Some of the terms of the measure are ambiguous and would depend on the interpretations put on them. That suggests things might be better left alone. Mere declarations in blank—as of the right to "life, liberty, security," etc.—do not change anything. There will be lots of time for parliamentarians to study the measure before the next session, however, when the substance of this bill should become more clear to everyone.

A Sharp Reminder

APPLICATION by the city welfare department to the council for almost a doubling of its allotted budget for this year comes as a sharp reminder of the number of employable men and women out of work in the community at this, a normally brisk period of the year. The department spent $12,782 in relief last year, compared with a post-war average of some $3,500 per annum; and thought it had covered the need when it was given $60,000 for this year. That sum is about exhausted and a further $45,000 to $50,000 is estimated as required for the remaining months of the year.

While the senior governments provide 90 per cent of such official assistance, it is not the indicated outlay as much as the obvious degree of human distress which necessitates it that furnishes a warning. The relief itself, at $55 monthly for a single individual and $86.50 for married couples, is close to the absolute subsistence level. Its dispersal is fully documented and each case directly supervised. It is the condition back of this need that invites attention. Through work stoppages in the area, changing economic times and other derangements, numbers of individuals who are willing and able to work are coming to the end of their personal resources. Relief may fill a first gap, but it is re-employment alone which could check and reverse the trend.

Besides covering whatever may be the ascertained needs of the city welfare department for the balance of this year, the community should organize to create as much fresh employment as may prove possible under the circumstances, especially during the winter months. The recent pick-up in housing construction should help, but of itself cannot meet the whole case. This is an emergent condition, and it must be faced.

Interpreting the News

U.S. Reply Open and Guarded

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

THE United States has adopted two standards of policy on the Nationalist-held islands of Matsu and Quemoy off the Red China coast.

One is official and a matter of government record; the other is unofficial and can be abandoned if expedient to do so.

The first was set out in the statement State Secretary Dulles issued after his conference with President Eisenhower at Eisenhower's vacation headquarters at Newport, R.I.

The statement was an if-and-or sort of document which shed no light on what the U.S. will do if the Red Chinese attack the two Nationalist islands, which lie a few miles off the China mainland.

It said the president has not yet made any finding that U.S. forces are needed in the defence of Formosa, the Chiang Kai-shek island stronghold that lies another 100 miles out to sea. Beyond that, though it ran to 900 words, the statement added nothing to what U.S. officials already have said about the Far East crisis.

The second standard of policy was enunciated by a government official who then interpreted that statement for reporters. This anonymous official, who ranks high in the councils of U.S. government, went far beyond the official statement in indicating that Eisenhower has, in fact, decided to use American fighting men if necessary to keep the islands out of Red Chinese hands.

It is extremely unlikely that the anonymous administration official would, or could, air such view without Eisenhower's prior knowledge.

There are several theories about the administration's reasoning in putting two faces on its China policy.

One is that Eisenhower wanted to give the Red Chinese a sharp warning as to American reaction to any offshore attack while at the same time giving himself an escape hatch if one is needed. A declaration of American intent to defend Matsu and Quemoy, if included in an official document, would commit the U.S. to a course of action from which it could not retreat. But a statement by an anonymous official, no matter how high, does not commit the government, and can be denied or forgotten if the need arises.

Another theory is that Eisenhower is less anxious or willing to go to Chiang's aid over the islands than is Dulles and some of his pro-Chiang aides in the state department, and that an unofficial declaration of American intent was as far as the president was prepared to go.

"We have to go along to save face"

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

I SCAN so many prints in a hurry I lose track of who said what in which journal but there's a lingering memory that a week ago President Eisenhower told reporters he'd go more often to see the Washington Senators play if they were a better team.

The Senators, may I add for the benefit of my readers of other predilections, are not politicians but a big-league baseball team in the town of the president's official residence. I believe they are at the bottom of the league these days.

I was surprised, though, at the genial Ike's remark. I thought he was of other metal. Nothing succeeds like success, we all know, and his own career offers an excellent example of this maxim. But success is meaningless unless there are men or events over which to succeed.

If only winners took part in things there never would be any winners.

This sort of business is not confined to athletics, either. Supposing indeed that Republicans had stayed away from the polls in 1952, or, thoroughly fed up by the poor showing of their party for 20 years, had switched to the Democrats. Well, Mr. Eisenhower wouldn't be president.

There is an allure about being on a winning side, it is true. As witness the people jumping on the Conservative bandwagon in B.C. because they think there's a victory in sight at the next provincial election. The faithful of the doleful days must have mixed feelings about such new-found support.

The public is fickle, doubtless. A man may be a hero one day and a has-been the next. One mistake at a crucial moment and it overshadows years of perfect performance. Sir Anthony Eden is a notable instance.

And if he be an athlete his record book is blotted for all time.

This fickleness will be why a baseball or any other kind of team struggling in the depths enjoys little favor even in its home town. The fans don't go to see and enjoy the playing of a game so much as they go to watch a victory. And if their own team doesn't win more often than it loses the attendances take a decided drop.

Team managers must wonder why many fans call themselves supporters.

If I remember aright, Mr. Eisenhower said in effect that if the Senators had a fighting chance of moving up the scale he'd be down there on an evening shouting them on.

This so often seems to be the philosophy. It doesn't seem to be realized that the best way to give a team a fighting chance—or an organization of any kind—is to support it through thick and thin. After all anyone can sport the colors of a team flying high at the top; it takes the real fan to be faithful in his support when good fortune is elusive.

It's a hen and an egg affair, really; all of a piece. Most teams, or leaders in any realm, do much better when well backed and fall off in performance when support is lacking. Only the exceptional individual is spurred by a brick rather than by a bouquet.

Maybe if the president turned up at the ball park more often so would a lot of other people, and the Senators, galvanized to fresh endeavor, would quickly slide up the scale. Empty seats carry no inspiration.

Reports from Ottawa

IT is ironic that the newest crisis in Anglo-Icelandic relations would never have arisen, with all its disruptive effect on NATO, if the nations of the world had adopted a proposal Canada put forward six months ago.

The proposal was advanced in the UN conference on the law of the sea held at Geneva last spring. It called for pushing the long-established three-mile territorial waters limit out to six miles, and then adding another six miles within which shore-line nations would exercise jurisdiction for fishery purposes.

The proposal was approved by simple majority in a conference committee, but in the end it was defeated in full conference session through strenuous opposition from Britain, the U.S. and France; the veto reaction of Nationalist China to U.S. policy, and lack of support from Soviet Russia.

If this six-and-six plan had been legislated into international law, it would have provided Iceland (and all other countries) with internationally recognized jurisdiction over fisheries out to a limit of 12 miles. Now, however, Iceland is attempting to establish its own 12-mile limit by unilateral declaration—with results which sadden countries like Canada which have warm relations with both Iceland and Britain.

Czarist Russia took similar unilateral action a half-century ago to establish a Russian 12-mile territorial waters limit. Partly because of this; partly because many of the smaller countries supporting the Canadian plan were new Asian and African nations whose good opinion the Kremlin is courting, our delegation hoped right up to the crucial vote that Russia would throw the Soviet bloc votes behind the proposal.

Songs Need More Than Voices

By GREGORY CLARK

WHEN the disc jockeys search through the files of their recordings to pick out each day's list, they occasionally like to be seasonal. Thus, this being September, what more natural than that they should dig out "September Song?" It is a beautiful little composition, charming as to tune, poignant as to words. It has an autumn feel about it.

It was first sung by the late Walter Huston in one of his great plays. The words were an integral part of the very plot of the play. The words, as he sang them, were like a dagger in our hearts. The lyrics of the song are not merely beautiful. They are splendid.

Now Walter Huston was an actor, not a singer. Yet, if you play his recording of "September Song" and then play Frank Sinatra's moo-cow rendering of it, or even charming Pat Boone's rendering, you find all the aesthetic difference that you would between a Helletz presentation of any page of music and that of contestants in a service club competition for the young. The Huston recording goes straight into the mind. The others reach the ear drums only. In other words, there are songs that the Sinatras and the Boones can't sing. All they have are voices. But there are songs that require more than voices. They require what Huston had. And who can define what that was?

Why should she give her bounty to the dead?
What is divinity if it can come Only in silent shadows and in dreams?
Shall she not find in comforts of the sun,
In pungent fruit and bright, green wings, or else
In any balm or beauty of the earth,
Things to be cherished like the thought of heaven?

—WALLACE STEVENS.

Freedom

The Danger Is Within

(From The Montreal Gazette)

THE world has had much reason in recent years to give thought to freedom. It is not only that freedom is menaced from without. It is menaced far more from within. As far as outward enemies are concerned, they ought to strengthen freedom, just because they oppose it; they utter freedom the exercise that comes from struggle. The danger to freedom lies not outside but inside. It is the danger of what freedom may do to itself.

The idea has grown up, year after year, that people would be happiest, from childhood to old age, if they were not restricted by inhibitions, or regulations, or by the grimness of discipline. Expression, not repression, was the happiness and birthright of mankind.

Discipline has been made an old-fashioned word, to be scorned with bitterness, as a relic of a dark past. Parents must not discipline their children. Teachers must not discipline their pupils. Adults must not discipline themselves.

But it has been well said that there is nothing like a theory for deluding the wise. The undisciplined child is often found to be peculiarly unhappy—as much a problem to himself as he is to others. The person who reaches for everything is curiously unlikely to grasp what he wants. The one who scorns restraint is likely to find himself bewildered by the consequences of his own want of discrimination.

There are signs—now here, now there—that the world is coming back to see once again the value of discipline. This does not mean that discipline is being sought as a harsh but effective method of enforcing order. Rather there dawns the rather wistful awareness that discipline, properly used, is necessary to happiness. It is very close to the exercise of judgment—to the wisdom that is peace.

What is happening is the recognition that people are made happy by what they refrain from doing as well as by what they do. Just doing, for the sake of doing, or because restraint, as such, must be rejected, is the way into clutter and confusion. Discipline, especially self-discipline, is the way of choice, of selection, of deciding between this and that. It becomes the way of constructing life and standards, of arriving in the end at a chosen goal, of living with meaningful satisfactions.

It may again be realized that discipline is not merely negative, bleak and miserable the cutting off of wishes, the harboring of resentments. Discipline may be a conscious wish. For the ultimate happiness of life must partly rest upon the things that were not done, the words that were left unsaid, a scale of values in aims and wishes. The will to refrain is not simply the smothering of inclination, but the decision to do something of greater value or meaning, though it may make necessary the foregoing of something else.

All this applies to nations as to people, for nations are only what the people make them. If the world of democracy is put in danger by the world of Communism, it is because Communism has imposed so firm a discipline as to make the democratic world wonder at times whether it is ready to make the voluntary effort needed for its own survival.

Yet this is no tragedy. It is only a test. No one, in school or out of it, should consider that a test is a cruel and needless thing, or that the results of a test ought to be hidden for fear of damaging the confidence of the one who fails.

The democracies have to prove, in this phase of the world's long history, whether they can find the sort of inner discipline that gives them happiness rather than weakness. They have to guide their own will, make their own choices, regulate their own demands, adjust their own claims.

For it is assured that if they do not find the inward freedom of discipline they shall be crushed—from without by the discipline that is not free.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

Maybe top-level talks about peace don't accomplish anything, but it's reassuring to know that the world's leaders still remember there's such a word.

Since it is possible to drive a submarine right under it, we have learned one new scientific fact about the North Pole: It doesn't extend below the ice.

When a little boy arrived home from school his mother asked him if he had been a good boy.

"Sure I was good in school today," he replied. "How much trouble can you get into standing in a corner?"

Four Kentucky ladies report having dealt a bridge hand in which each held all the cards of a single suit. Mathematical odds against this are long, but even more unusual was that they stopped talking long enough to notice.

Letters to the Editor

Poor Manners

I attended the symphony concert in Beacon Hill Park on Sunday, and was very pleased with the program and enjoyed it immensely. However, I was considerably put off by the poor manners and lack of consideration displayed by a number of people who persisted in talking throughout the performance.

It seems a great pity that these people could not have taken themselves elsewhere to gossip and left the concert area to those who enjoy music.

On leaving the park I overheard a woman saying to a friend that it was "a pity Mr. Gruber played such a long high-toned number (Beethoven's 5th Symphony) rather than something that people knew."

Too Easy Living

As a housewife and mother of a large family I was interested in Miss Betty Crocker's address to women on easy living and "irradiated" potatoes to stop them sprouting.

World-famous health authorities and nutritionists are of the opinion that the high polio rate amongst children and cancer rate of adults is caused mainly through our processed, pasteurized, papified, chemicalized, refined foodstuffs which are "dead foods," lacking in the essential mineral salts and precious vitamins.

We have quantity but no quality; and to add to our troubles we are now threatened with the danger of irradiated potatoes and canned goods.

What a struggle we conscientious wives and mothers will have to feed our children in a poisoned world.

Dangers of Carbon Tet.

As a member of the Canadian Association of Consumers and one who worked on our resolution asking for fully informative labelling of carbon tetrachloride and other products in common use which contain harmful ingredients, may I thank you for the assistance afforded by your editorial, "Dangers of Carbon Tet," in the Colonist of Aug. 21.

The resolution to correct this situation originated in the Victoria Branch of CAC. Our national president took the matter to the deputy minister of national health and welfare, under which the food and drug directorate operates. We were assured then that if inadequate labelling were found to be a factor of importance it would certainly receive the department's attention. The Colonist editorial strengthens our contention that labelling is a "factor of importance."

I should like to mention that Miss Frances Thompson, who wrote a cookery column for the Colonist at that time, brought to the attention of your readers the dangers of carbon tetrachloride in her advice about Christmas cleaning, removing stains, etc.

Pensions Abroad

I read with great interest and appreciation the article in the issue of June 29 in which you point out so clearly the need for revised legislation regarding the payment of old-age pensions.

It does seem most unjust that those who have lived in, and worked for, Canada for years are debarred from drawing the old-age pension because circumstances have necessitated their spending certain years out of Canada.

In my own case I came to Canada (where my relatives had worked for years) in the early part of 1901, and apart from the First World War (at the outbreak of which I enlisted as a private in the Canadian Infantry) I remained in Canada, working, as I believe, in the interests of Canada, and introducing a considerable amount of capital during the years before the war.

I have held public offices (to the best of my ability) as alderman, licence commissioner, police commissioner, and A.D.C. to two lieutenant-governors. My son is Canadian by birth and is proud of it. My wife and I have Canadian passports.

There may be others with better claims than I, but surely I am one of those who might very well be allowed the Canadian old-age pension, whether I like to get back to Canada or not. I am not entitled to the English one and do not receive it.

Heading Where?

Why induce the farmers to grow so much grain? The surplus is not given away, it cannot be sold, and the taxpayers subsidize the growers, so that they can go on growing still more.

How much longer is the government going to allow the cost of living (bread at 19 cents) to rise?

Is there an economist who knows where we are heading?

U.S. Cowboy's Trial Recalls Old Rootin', Shootin' West

CANYON CITY, Ore. — A circuit court session went overtime Monday before a jury was selected for an old west gun duel murder case.

Cattle rancher Robert E. Sproul, 43, is accused of shooting down his brother-in-law in a duel over road rights. The charge is first-degree murder. Sproul is accused of killing Harlan Link Williams, 46, his wife's brother, last June 21. There had been blood between the two men over a right to use a road across Williams' ranch.

The two men met on the road one morning, both heavily armed, and Williams was killed in the shooting affray that followed.

Sproul wore a western shirt, pants and cowboy boots in court.

Special Centennial Week

City Grets Officials Of Commonwealth

Ghana is seeking technical assistance from Canada in turning the 18-month-old independent state into a modern nation. Ako Adjei, minister of labor and co-operatives in Ghana, said yesterday shortly after his arrival in Victoria.

Ako Adjei is one of several Commonwealth representatives staying at the Empress Hotel during the Commonwealth of Nations Week in the centennial celebrations.

Others are: Mirza Osman Ali Baig, Pakistan high commissioner to Canada; Sir Velupillai and Lady Coomaraswamy, Ceylon high commissioner to Canada; Tan Siew Sin, minister of trade and industry in Malaya, and Raja Mohar, controller to the ministry; and Sir Velupillai's secretary, Miss P. Ponnambalam.

Tan Siew Sin spoke of the recent guerrilla warfare in the Malayan jungles. Communist China would not dare risk armed intervention for fear of American retaliation, he felt, but would support Communist infiltration into Malayan trade unions, political parties and schools.

The ranks of guerrilla bands had been reduced from 11,000 in 1951 to a mere thousand today, mostly through surrender, and the morale of the Malayan Communist party is "very low," he said.

This morning, the Commonwealth representatives will visit Premier W. A. C. Bennett and Mayor Percy Scourrah and four Royal Canadian Naval establishments and ships.

The party will return to the mainland tomorrow.

BCE Opposes 'Open Books' Before Public

Counsel for the B.C. Electric Co. said he believed if average 19-per cent increase in Greater Victoria bus fares, yesterday opposed a move to have a detailed report of the company's finances made public.

A. Bruce Robertson, BCE solicitor and vice-president, told the Public Utilities Commission that the report could serve no useful purpose in the hearing.

But city solicitor T. P. O'Grady, who represented all of the Greater Victoria municipalities, argued that the report made the PUC annually under provisions of provincial legislation should at least be made available to "all interested parties."

"What have they got to hide?" asked Mr. O'Grady. "Why should they object to making a disclosure of their affairs? What is confidential about that information?"

On the other hand Mr. Robertson said he objected very strenuously that the report should become public property and said that just because the document contained some figures which might be relevant it did not mean that everything should be disclosed to the public.

PUC chairman Dr. H. F. Angus said it was one thing for counsel to ask for any particular information and unless there was some good reason for excluding it the commission would order that it be produced. But he added, the commission would have to give very careful consideration to any request that the report be made available to all interested parties.

Mr. O'Grady did not press the point. Earlier the commission turned down Mr. O'Grady's request to reopen the entire question of how much the B.C. Electric should be allowed to earn.

The commission, through Dr. Angus, said this was a side issue and should not interfere with the main business of deciding whether or not the application for a fare increase should be allowed.

The company is seeking permission to raise the fares here from the present 10 cents to 13 cents or 100 tickets for 50 cents.

The 10-cent fare, said BCE vice-president Dr. H. L. Purdy, had virtually disappeared from the Canadian transit scene and said fares of between 12 cents and 15 cents were now in effect in Calgary, Edmonton, Guelph, Hamilton, Halifax, Kingston, London, Ottawa, Saskatoon and Toronto.

Questionnaire on Way In Shop Hours Battle

Branding its own action "a waste of time and money," city council finance committee decided yesterday to send a questionnaire to all retail merchants in the city asking them about their shopping week preferences.

The committee decided it had no option but to carry out instructions from council last June to send out the questionnaires.

It took this action after hearing again from delegations of both sides in the 5½-versus-six-day shopping week controversy.

CLOSE AS POSSIBLE

Mayor Percy Scurrell, who maintained that the present compromise of 4½ months of six-day shopping was "as close as we can get to satisfying everybody," also held that hearing the delegations was a waste of time.

"I would like to ask you both, have you any new arguments?" he asked the delegations.

"Otherwise, I think it's a waste of time. We know all the arguments backward and forward," said the committee was soon hearing arguments again.

HAPPY WITH SYSTEM

Bruce Humber, for the 5½-day shopping week group, said they were present only to reiterate that they were entirely happy with the present system. But Archie Willis, for the six-day group, questioned the other side's claim to represent a majority of retailers.

Mr. Willis claimed the 5½-day group had lost support since merchants had had the experience of 3½ months of summer six-day shopping. The 5½-day delegates denied it.

HAVE A COMPROMISE

Mr. Humber denied that the 5½-day group had given ground in going along with six-day shopping in the summer. It did so, he said, for the benefit of the community in the tourist season, and "we feel that we have a compromise that is a satisfactory as it can be."

"You have seen the wisdom of it," said Mr. Willis.

"Never," said Mr. Humber.

The 5½-day group several times suggested that the six-day group consisted almost entirely of department and chain stores.

SCOFF AT REPLY

"You have two department stores, a chain store, and you don't know who else," Mr. Humber challenged at one point.

"Everyone who is not on your list," Mr. Willis replied. "They are staying open, so they favor it."

But 5½-day delegates scoffed at his reply.

Home Education Urged

'Let TV Teach'

EDMONTON (CP)—Teaching by television, with the bright students doing most of their learning at home, was recommended Monday to the Cameron Provincial Royal Commission on education as it resumed hearings here.

The recommendation was contained in a brief presented by the Edmonton Educational Study Group, an eight-member committee of Edmonton laymen headed by Dr. K. A. Burnham.

Conceding that some types of education must be carried on in the classroom, the commission was told there were four main advantages to the wide use of educational TV: Each student could proceed at his own pace, more efficient use could be made of teachers; instruction could be strengthened by visual aids; and adults and working persons could be reached by educators.

A brief presented by the Idylwyde Home and School Association of Edmonton, favored the "strengthening and stiffening of the general curriculum" and urged that all standards be raised "to the level of European schools."

The association also called for an earlier starting age for school children with "kindergarten as an official status."

City Pilot Survives Collision

A former Victoria College student, FO R. J. Pomeroy, was one of four men who survived a mid-air collision Saturday between two T-33 jet trainers.

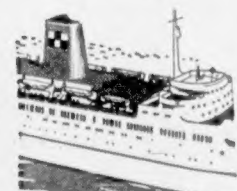

Pomeroy and FO Allan C. Friksen, both 21, rode their damaged plane back to base after the collision over Howe Sound, while the men in the other plane, FO David Luther Kendall, 29, and FO Kenneth A. Johnson, 23, were forced to bail out. The later were picked up by the seiner Freeland and later returned to Vancouver aboard an RCAF Canso.

Pomeroy, a "weekend pilot," is now studying engineering at the University of British Columbia.

No. 3 in a series on tobacco research

The International Cancer Congress and Cigarette Smoking

On July 6-12th. in London, England, 2,000 scientists from 63 countries attending the 7th. International Cancer Congress—an event held every four years—were given the latest data on cancer and smoking by the world's foremost cancer experts. Rothmans Research scientists were also there and have examined the papers submitted along with their own findings.

SINCE THE publication on June 23rd. of the first in this series of research announcements, there has been widespread interest shown in the Canadian press and smokers have asked for more information. Here is a brief summary of the facts as they stand today:-

1. Rothmans Research Division accepts the statistical evidence linking lung cancer with heavy smoking. This is done as a precautionary measure in the interest of smokers.

2. The exact biological relationship between smoking and cancer in mankind is still not known and a direct link has not been proved.

3. In research laboratory work, inhalation studies on animals have been largely negative. However, the application of tobacco tar on the skin of certain animals has produced cancer and therefore indicates that tobacco smoke condensate contains carcinogenic substances which are at least active to those animals.

4. The suspected chemicals in tobacco smoke that have produced cancer in animals have been identified. In fractionation studies, the majority of the active carcinogenic agents were located in the fraction which is eluted with carbon tetrachloride from the neutral tar. This fraction represents only 1.7% of total tobacco tar and, when applied in the heavy concentration of 10%, produced 100% cancer on animal skin.

5. Further studies were then conducted to determine whether there was a threshold level at which total tobacco tar would not produce cancer on animal skin. It was discovered that there was a dose level at which the development of animal cancer was so small, and the latent period before the formation of tumours so long, that for all material purposes it represented a threshold level. This minimum level is about one-third the optimum level.

6. Transposing this data to cigarette smoking, an increasing section of scientific opinion believes that if the tar intake from a single cigarette were reduced to the range of 18 to 20 milligrams (mgs.), there would be a significant reduction in the possible risk of lung cancer. Most of the world's cigarettes today yield in the vicinity of 30 mgs. and there are many which exceed 40 mgs.

N.B. The control at 18-20 mgs. of the tar intake from a single Rothmans King Size cigarette is achieved as follows:-

- (i) the use of tobaccos of lower tar content,
- (ii) the fitting of an effective filter which reduces further, and in correct proportion, the amount of tar entering the mouth and lungs, and
- (iii) the stubbing out of the butt of a cigarette equivalent to about one-third of its total length (for which purpose the extra length of Rothmans King Size is provided).

The balance between satisfaction, filtration and ease of draw is constantly checked by scientific instruments.

7. There are no scientific grounds to justify the reduction of tar in a single cigarette to less than 18-20 mgs., except in the case of very heavy smokers of more than 2 packs (40 cigarettes) a day.

N.B. To such smokers Rothmans advocates moderation.

Reducing the tars in cigarettes to the level of 18-20 mgs. does not affect the pleasure of smoking. Indeed, once people have smoked such cigarettes, they find satisfaction and enjoyment in the cleaner smoke. Below 18-20 mgs., tobacco begins markedly to lose its taste and aroma, and there would be less and less satisfaction as the readings drop.

8. Unburned tobacco contains no cancer forming agents. They are formed only during combustion. Any plant material sets free cancer forming agents, when burned at a high temperature. (If lettuce were smoked, the result would be the same.)

From about the middle of a cigarette length to the butt, the temperature reaches 880°C. (±30°C.). When this temperature is reduced below 700°C., the biological activity on the skin of animals is reduced to almost nil.

As a further precautionary measure, research projects on this problem include the search for a chemical to make tobacco burn at a lower temperature.

N.B. The present straight virginia manufacturing process as used by Rothmans employs no chemicals whatsoever. Nor would any chemicals be used unless a direct biological link (as distinct from a statistical link) makes it necessary to treat tobacco with such a catalyst.

9. Some statistical studies indicate a higher mortality rate from lung cancer among cigarette smokers than among smokers of cigars and pipes. However, in laboratory experiments, the carcinogenic activity from cigar and pipe smoke was found to be greater than in cigarette smoke, because, burning at a high temperature for a longer time, combustion is more complete in cigars and in pipes.

10. The tobacco-cancer problem is difficult and nebulous. It has brought forth many conflicting theories and evidences. But great knowledge and a better understanding have been gained through research. The controversy is a matter of public interest. The contents of the world's leading brands of cigarettes are today under the scrutiny of medical and independent research.

A list of cigarettes, some of which have achieved significant tar reductions of up to 40% in the past year, was tabled at the International Cancer Congress by an eminent cancer expert.

N.B. The performance of Canadian made Rothmans King-Size cigarettes (as previously certified by independent research) showed that:-

Rothmans King Size Filter yields from 14.4% to 38.7% less tars than the four other best selling Filter brands in Canada.

Canadians Unite On Conversion

Not since the days of war when the nation united to buy and make the tools of war have Canadians been united on any project as they have on the Canada Conversion Loan.

From coast to coast people of all walks of life have answered the call to convert their old bonds to new ones at higher interest. And it isn't only personal profit of the bondholders which has motivated the success of the loan.

FAITH OF CANADIANS IN CANADA

A leading newspaper editorially suggests a basic reason why an undertaking of this magnitude could not fail, "the faith of Canadians in Canada."

Quoting Mr. Diefenbaker's Conversion Loan address to the nation, the paper says: "We often hear it said that nations and governments seem to be able to achieve things under the stress of wartime emergency that they cannot do in times of peace."

"Surely it need not be so. Let us prove that it is not by entering upon this undertaking in the same spirit and with the same determination that brought such distinction to Canada during two great wars."

CONTINUOUS PRESSURE ON SALES AGENTS

That is what has been happening. Since the opening date, bondholders have been converting at a pace which has put pressure not only on the Bank of Canada but also on the chartered banks and other financial institutions.

It has been a united effort. Conversions have come from every type and grouping of Canadians, from banks, insurance and trust companies, from universities, from pension funds, from religious organizations, from civic and provincial governments, and from literally hundreds of thousands of individual bond holders.

UNITED EFFORT BEHIND LOAN

Another indication of the spirit and unity placed behind the loan has been the time and effort spent by those seeking to help people convert their Victories to new Conversion Bonds. No stone has been left unturned to assure that every Canadian, even the holder of a single $50 bond, has an opportunity to take advantage of the greater investment possibility of the new loan.

The Conversion Loan is by far the biggest financial project ever undertaken in Canada in peace or war. The response by the press, dealers, and the man in the street has supported the belief in "the faith of Canadians in Canada."

How To Spot A 'Convertible'

To help Canadians readily identify Victory Bonds which can now be converted, the Bank of Canada today offered this simple formula.

Bonds eligible for conversion must carry one of the following prefixes in advance of the serial number; L7; L9; P3; P5; P7.

Some investors have been unaware that they held bonds which could qualify for the conversion issue. Those persons who keep a listing of their securities can now identify the bonds without even checking their strong box.

September 15 is the deadline for converting these bonds to the attractive new issue.

Busiest Photographer!

"Seems like everybody is converting Victory Bonds," muses Nicole Ladouceur, who today rates as Canada's busiest photographer. Nicole and her associates in the head office of the Bank of Canada at Ottawa are busy photographing on microfilm each of the bonds turned in to the bank for conversion. The bonds are stored for a period before being destroyed in the bank's incinerators. With the great majority of the outstanding bonds now converted, the girls face a huge backlog of photography as indicated by the stack of bonds on Nicole's desk.

What Happens...

...To Old Bonds

The same atmosphere of rigid security which surrounds the handling of new bonds or currency is applied to the handling of old bonds returned to the Bank of Canada on maturity or when called.

They are placed in rolling cabinets, secured by four padlocks, and are conveyed to the incinerator room. At least four persons must be present at every stage of the storing and disposal of the old bonds which have served their purpose. Details are recorded on microfilm and, following a period of storage, the bonds are burned in the bank's incinerators.

Custodians must be present because each holds a key to one of the four padlocks.

Progress Report To Canadians

VICTORY BONDS 80% CONVERTED

First Shipment—Canada Conversion Bonds worth millions of dollars are shown in this first shipment of the new bonds from the Bank of Canada. They were shipped to the Bank of Canada agency in Montreal where, under the watchful eye of A. Huberdeau, Monique Groulx and Suzanne Lafond prepare to send them to banks and other financial institutions for final distribution. Victory Bond holders have until September 15 to convert their Victories to the new higher interest bonds of the Canada Conversion Loan.

Leacock Manuscripts Found In Bank Vault

Leacock manuscripts, one of them written on the back of an old McGill University examination paper, turned up recently in an old carton in a vault of the Bank of Canada at Ottawa. They had lain there since the war, when they were written by the great humorist as his contribution to one of the Victory Bond campaigns.

Women Quick To See Good Deal

Women are proving to have good business heads, according to records of Canada Conversion Loan officials. For example, one Ottawa woman who has carried on small investment dealings for several years, walked into her dealer the day after the Conversion Loan was announced and tendered eighteen $1,000 Victory Bonds for conversion to the new 25-year 4½ per cent. issue. In that single quick action she increased her annual interest on the bonds from $340 to $810 per year. And she received a nice cash adjustment as well.

FOLLOW SUIT
Loan officials called upon other women holding bonds to follow suit before the September 15 deadline. Many women bond holders have changed their names through marriage and others have inherited their bonds from husbands or other male relatives. Sales agents thus have difficulty tracing them.

MAY NOT KNOW
In some cases the women bond holders may not even know they have them. These are instances where the bonds formed part of an estate which is being administered by an executor. Even with the huge army of bond people seeking out the eligible Victories, many holders will be missed if they do not voluntarily come forward. This applies particularly to people in remote areas. People in doubt as to whether their bonds are eligible for conversion are advised to contact a financial advisor.

NO EXTENSION OF TIME LIMIT

There will be no extension of the September 15 deadline for the conversion of Victory Bonds to the new Conversion Loan issue. Everything has been geared to completing the loan by that date and any extension would involve too many factors to be practical, officials of the Department of Finance said. To be dealt with, applications must be filed with investment dealers, banks, trust or loan companies or stockbrokers not later than the close of business, September 15, 1958.

5 Days Left In Big Drive

With just one full week to go, the Canada Conversion Loan of 1958 today reached 80 per cent. of its objective of $6.4 billion and a successful conclusion to the biggest financing undertaking in Canada's history was near.

Since the Hon. Donald Fleming, Minister of Finance, spoke to the people of Canada by radio and television a week ago, there has been a literal avalanche of individual conversions, Bank of Canada officials disclosed. Many of these conversions were for small amounts, $100 or less, a factor which was specially welcomed by the loan organization since it demonstrated that the people of Canada as a whole are solidly behind the Conversion Loan, just as they were behind the Victory Loan campaigns during the war.

DEADLINE

Twenty per cent. of the Victory Bonds which can be exchanged for the new Conversion issues are still outstanding, however. Those who fail to take advantage of the opportunity to convert their holdings into the higher interest Conversion Bonds before next Monday night will lose the "rights" which they now have, officials pointed out.

HON. DONALD FLEMING

From the outset, the Conversion Loan has been well received by the Canadian public which realized that it was serving both its own and the nation's interests by extending its loans to the government.

The Minister of Finance pointed out that the successful completion of the Conversion Loan would clear the way for not only the Federal Government but also the provinces, municipalities and private businesses to plan necessary financing for future development programs in a confident and orderly manner.

The Conversion Loan is also a major factor in the Government's policy of seeing that the purchasing power of the Canadian dollar is not reduced by the dangers of inflation.

BIG CAMPAIGN

Returns to date have set new records in public financing in Canada, but to attain the complete success that the Government seeks, it is essential that as many as possible of the small $50 and $100 units be converted this week. Final success will depend upon the quick reaction of individuals themselves.

Primarily, it is pointed out, the Canada Conversion Loan serves the individual interests of every Victory Bond holder whether his holding be large or small. It provides these holders with the right to exchange their holdings for new bonds which have the same security as Victory Bonds because they are backed by the nation itself.

Next Monday at the close of business the books will close and the Canada Conversion Loan of 1958 will have become a red letter chapter in Canadian financial history.

Conversion Sideights

The hunt for Victory Bonds for conversion under Canada's great Conversion Loan has led from cellar to attic with young and old participating. Some unusual items have been turned up in the search.

- Bond dealers found one Victory Bond framed and hanging on the wall in a residence. The lady who owned it regarded it as a recognition from the Government that she had made a contribution to the war effort. She had completely overlooked its cash value.
- An investment dealer in Winnipeg was approached by a 97-year-old gentleman who expressed his confidence in both his own and country's future by offering bonds for conversion to the 25-year 4½ per cent issue.
- A safety deposit box, untouched for 10 years, yielded an individual bonanza of $7,000 in convertible bonds rather than the $700 which the owner had thought it held.
- In Montreal an elderly lady approached a securities company with $20,000 in bonds in a metal biscuit box which she kept in her kitchen.
- A Halifax woman revealed that she kept her bonds in a grocer's paper bag on her grocery shelf in the kitchen. "Burglars would never think of looking there," she explained.

Bloody Coups Fails

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Roberts staged an unsuccessful attempt to overthrow the government Sunday, settling off a bloody eight-hour battle in the heart of Caracas.

The government of Admiral Wolfgang Larrazabal announced that one leader of the abortive coup had been captured and three others had taken refuge in the Mexican Embassy.

Unofficial accounts said about 20 persons were killed and 400 wounded in the day-long violence.

An 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew was ordered.

The government said military police personnel led the plot. After their plot was thwarted, rebel leaders took up positions in military police headquarters in the centre of the city to carry out sporadic fighting throughout the day. When the building finally was entered, it was empty. One rumor said the insurgents had fled through a secret tunnel.

The rebels fought off attacks by civilian vigilantes armed with machine guns and lead pipes before a handful of grade school children climbed into the first and second floors of the military police building and found it empty.

Backed by loyal military men and determined civil forces, the street crowds turned the centre of the city into a bloody, barricaded battleground.

At Castle Altar

Medieval 'Ghosts' On Film

SEDELEY, England (Reuters)—Ghosts of 13 people in medieval robes have shown up on a color picture taken at the deserted high altar of Winchester Cathedral, an amateur photographer has claimed.

T. L. Taylor, 42, an electrical engineer, said he has no explanation for the strange, air-pictorial figures that appear to be standing and kneeling before the altar of the 11th century cathedral.

Color film experts said the picture is not a double exposure. Taylor's 35-millimeter camera is fitted with a device to prevent double exposures.

Taylor's wife, his 16-year-old daughter Valerie and a friend were present when he took two photographs of the altar.

The first shows the choir stalls empty.

The second, taken one minute later and five yards farther back, shows the 13 people. The line of the altar's steps is clearly visible through the transparent bodies of some of the figures.

Closing Ends Jobs for 89

Provincial cabinet has approved the laying off of 89 employees in the health department as a result of the closing of Tranquille Sanatorium as a tuberculosis hospital.

The hospital, near Kamloops, will be converted into a hospital for mental defectives in the 20 to 40 age group. The move has been made possible by the startling success in the war against tuberculosis over the past few years.

A cabinet order stated that the 121 employees at Tranquille will no longer be needed but officials said it was hoped 82 members of the staff could be placed elsewhere.

18th Century Empire Broken Up

LONDON (AP)—The 18th century Muscadine Empire was finally broken up yesterday. A city and surrounding enclave of 299 square miles or the southwest Pakistan coast.

The Sultan of Muscat and Oman, whose dynasty once ruled vast stretches around the Gulf of Oman in the Muscadine Empire, turned over the enclave to Pakistan in what was announced as a gesture of good will.

The British government handled arrangements for the peaceful transfer.

Khrushchev Backs Mao

LONDON (CP)—Russia's Premier Khrushchev has joined with Red China's Mao Tse-tung in a direct intervention in the Far East crisis.

U.S. Asks Russia:

Keep China Leashed

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—The United States called on Russia Monday to put a leash on Red China as a means of easing the dangerous situation in the Far East.

The summer White House issued the statement a few hours after Moscow broadcast a warning that it would regard any attack on Chinese Communist territory as an attack on the Soviet Union itself.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty told a press conference—Eisenhower would not reply directly to Khrushchev's warning until he had a chance to study it more fully. But he said:

"The president earnestly hopes that the Chinese Communist regime will not again, as in the case of Korea, use armed force to achieve territorial ambitions. That would be to defy the basic principles on which world order depends."

There appeared to be no particular sense of urgency at the White House here. The president spent the morning at the golf course before approving the statement.

Prince George Gas Vote Set

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—Ratepayers will vote for the second time Sept. 18 on whether they want the city to own the local natural gas distribution system.

A similar referendum was passed by voters in July but it did not receive a necessary 60 per cent majority.

Most houses are built out of coral limestone in the Caribbean island of Barbados, where there is no timber. Moist when taken from the quarry, the stone can be sawed like wood and hardens when it dries.

Local Man Does Best At Port Alberni Fair

PORT ALBERNI—George Wilson won the E. M. Whyte trophy for most points in Alberni district's 13th annual fall fair.

The Port Alberni man's high aggregate was made up mainly on points won in the flower division where he took first in many classes and was awarded several special prizes. He also was a serious contender in the garden produce division.

The fair closed on a note of high success. Record attendance, high quality entries and the increased interest due to special attractions were responsible for making the three-day event the biggest and best on record.

Grand finale of the fair was the draw for the grand prize, a 1958 de luxe car, won by H. B. Winter, Jones Building, Victoria.

Among special award winners were: Dave Kruis, best display in junior garden club section; J. R. Dutton, Sr., best display in show; Westport's Shores Ltd., first and CJAV second for awards in commercial display; St. Francis C.N., first; Alberni Hospital Club, second; organizational aggregate in cooking; Royal Purple, first; Alberni Hospital Club, second; organizational aggregate in most classes; Arrowmouth Farms, winners, took awards for grand, junior and senior championship cows, junior and grand

False Teeth Need A Special Cleanser

Don't Brush Your Plates! Soak Them in Polident As Dentists Suggest

Polident is the recommended way to clean dentures, partial dentures, full dentures, and complete dentures. Just follow these easy rules:

1. Never use a brush on (denture) Your denture plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting ridges so they get loose.

2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath."

3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only... Polident! Polident cleanser is recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soapy plates. Polident gets where a brush can't reach.

Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. Get the world's largest selling denture cleanser, Polident, at your drug counter.

The Soviet premier called on President Eisenhower to withdraw United States troops from Formosa, and urged a United Nations ban on the rushing of American forces "from one end of the world to the other."

In a message sent to Washington Monday and published here Monday night by the official Soviet news agency, Tass, Khrushchev warned that Russia would regard an attack on Communist China as an attack on the Soviet Union, and added: "Mankind is again confronted with a direct threat of war."

Until American soldiers were withdrawn from Formosa and American ships from the Formosa Strait a stable peace in the Far East was "unthinkable."

PROVOCATION
American action in the Far East, where the U.S. 7th Fleet is guarding Nationalist Chinese convoys and American marines are exercising with Nationalist troops in Formosa, was "an open provocation."

Khrushchev's personal intervention was disclosed four hours after Red China's Mao expressed hope in Peiping that talks with the U.S. on the ambassadorial level would begin as soon as possible in Warsaw. State department spokesmen in Washington said the U.S. is ready, willing and pressing for negotiations with Red China to ease Far East tensions.

COLD SHOULDER
But Washington officials swiftly turned a cold shoulder to Khrushchev's demand that the U.S. order its fleet and fighting men out of the Formosan area.

The full text of Khrushchev's letter, given to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow Monday, was rushed to President Eisenhower's vacation headquarters at Newport, R.I., a few hours before Tass publicly broadcast its contents.

Khrushchev suggested that the general problems of East-West tensions, as now exemplified by the crisis over Formosa, might best be submitted to the UN.

Khrushchev declared it inadmissible that Communist China is not represented in the UN. He charged that "only the unrealistic position" of the U.S. government prevents seating of Red China.
